SHAWSA approves Kalamazoo Street project

By James Windell

Portions of Kalamazoo Street in South Haven will be undergoing redesigning and reconstruction later this year.

The project was given the go ahead at the February 24, 2026 South Haven Area Water and Sewer Authority (SHAWSA) meeting.

The engineering firm of Fishbeck presented a proposal for the project which calls for a water main replacement along Kalamazoo Street from south of Lovejoy Avenue to north of Blue Star Memorial Highway. Additionally, the project includes stormwater improvements, a mill and fill of the street down to Blue Star, and the dredging of a ditch west of Kalamazoo Street which is causing the stormwater system to back up in the area.

When speaking about the project, Dana Burd, Director of the Department of Public Works, discussed the particulars of the proposal from Fishbeck.

"A newer northern section was reconstructed roughly eight years ago (around the same time as North Park Road), leaving a gap where a 12-inch main transitions down to an older 8-inch main," Burd said. "The older segment has a history of frequent breaks, prompting a proposal to replace it alongside the road work."

Burd pointed out that the project is near properties with known contamination. PFAS is known at one of the sites, and other contaminants are possible due to historic industrial uses. However, Fishbeck will be brought in to support environmental permitting, review design implications in contaminated areas, and provide sampling and disposal recommendations for right-of-way materials.

Fishbeck tasks related to the project include reviewing historical contamination records and assessing whether risks overlap the planned watermain alignment or sit outside the right-of-way. Sampling will be used to identify "hot" material in advance and develop a construction response plan. Brownfield funding was discussed, but no clear path to additional funding was identified.

Burd said that the watermain replacement portion is expected to cost between $400,000 to $600,000. The overall project estimate may be as much as $1.3 million. The City of South Haven was awarded an MDOT TEDF Category F grant to reconstruct Kalamazoo Street from Lovejoy south to the City limits. The Van Buren County Road Commission was also awarded a separate MDOT grant to resurface Kalamazoo Street south to Blue Star Highway.

An MDOT TEDF Category F grant is a Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) funding program that supports transportation projects in cities and villages located within rural counties. It is part of Michigan's broader Transportation Economic Development Fund (TEDF), which aims to strengthen economic activity and improve transportation infrastructure across the state.

Burd indicated that the design for the project is largely completed – except for the environmental component. Fishbeck sampling is planned for early to mid-March of this year with results expected early to mid-April. The project is likely to go out for bids in May once environmental details are finalized. Construction is anticipated to take place from July through September this year.

The SHAWSA Board approved proceeding with Fishbeck's proposal for environmental support and permits at a cost of $36,805.

Chamber of Commerce announces Give Back Program

By James Windell

New businesses in the area can have the backing of the South Haven Area Chamber of Commerce in a newly inaugurated Give Back Program.

"The Give Back Program is designed to foster and support a new business in our community," says Brandy Key, Executive Director of the South Haven Area Chamber of Commerce. "By providing access to Chamber resources, connections, and visibility, it will help the selected business establish strong local roots, build relationships, and become an active contributor to the South Haven Area business community."

Essentially, Key adds, the Give Back Program is a way to give a promising new business a strong start and set them up for long-term success.

The Chamber has launched the Give Back Program as part of their ongoing commitment to strengthening and growing the South Haven Area business community. "We recognize that starting and growing a business can be challenging," says Key, "and we wanted to create a meaningful way to support and encourage the growth of new businesses in our community."

Through the Give Back Program, one new business each year will receive a free year of Chamber membership. Eligible businesses include those that have been operating for three years or less, have never been a member of the South Haven Area Chamber of Commerce, and demonstrate a desire to grow and engage with the local business community.

Recipients will enjoy full membership benefits, including networking opportunities, event participation, marketing exposure, and business support. They will also be spotlighted on Chamber's website, social media, and newsletter, recognized at the Chamber Annual Dinner, and celebrated with a ribbon-cutting ceremony.

"This is a significant opportunity for a new business," explains Key. "Access to established networks, visibility, and trusted community connections can take years to build independently. Through the Give Back Program, the selected business is immediately plugged into the South Haven Area Chamber of Commerce's network, resources, and promotional platforms."

She says that this kind of early exposure helps accelerate relationship-building, builds credibility, and increases awareness within the community. "Instead of navigating those first critical months alone, the entrepreneur has a built-in support system and direct access to other business leaders," she says. "For the selected business, those connections and that visibility can make a meaningful difference in how quickly it gains traction and establishes strong local roots."

Applications for the first Give Back Program recipient opened on March 2, 2026, and applications will be accepted through Wednesday, April 29, 2026. Those interested in applying may access the application online at www.southhavenmi.com or visit the Chamber office to pick up an application in person.

Key says that applications for the program will be reviewed by the Give Back Committee and selection will be based on passion, community spirit, and potential for growth. The first recipient of the Give Back Program will be announced at the Chamber's Annual Dinner & Business Excellence Awards in June 2026.

ByJames Windell

In a Harbor Commission meeting on February 17, 2026, officers were elected.

Kevn Conway, who is serving a three-year term that ends at the end of 2026, was re-elected Chair. Brent Nichols, whose term expires in 2027, was elected as Vice-Chair.

In other business conducted at this meeting, license agreements with IT-IL-DO Charters, LLC for operation of their vessel "Sea Rocket," that was set to expire on October 15, 2026, was renewed for five years.

Chad Bard, owner of IT-IL-DO Charters, has operated a charter fishing boat at South Marina since 2014 and a tour boat at South Marina since 2016. The agreement approved by the Harbor Commission allows Bard to continue to dock his vessels at the South Marina deck from 2027 to 2031. The fee for this license will be $10,418.63 for 2027 with annual 5 % increases for the remaining years of the agreement.

The City of South Haven also has had a license agreement with IT-IL-DO Charters, LLC for operation of their tour boat operation vessel "Sun-Setter." That agreement was also expiring in October, 2026. The Harbor Commission approved a new 5-year license for "Sun-Setter" with the same fees as for "Sea Rocket," that will increase to $12,663.86 by 2031.

Michael Landis, Assistant City Manager and Harbor Master, reported that he and City Manager Kate Hosier recently met with the Army Corps of Engineers. Landis indicated that in 2020, the Army Corps of Engineers (ACE) started looking at the repairs or wave topping that exists in Section L of South Haven's South Beach where waves often go over to the parking lot and to the City's wastewater treatment plant.

"We were contacted by ACE in 2020," Landis told the Harbor Commission, "and they began looking at three different design choices that could help eliminate some of the wave action that causes beach erosion." He added that the water washing over the beach causes a great deal of destruction.

"ACE approached us and said they were about 30 % of the way there in terms of designs," Landis said. "They said it was now time to talk to us about design options."

He explained that ACE is in a design phase for improving "Section L" which is a section of the pier in-between the pier gate and concessions area on the south side. "The history of this stems from the continued waves lapping over the section of pier which impacts the structure, the beach and city infrastructure," Landis said.

The three options that ACE is reviewing range from raised concrete and parapet walls, raised and improved structural parapet walls with seating, and full reconstruction of the walls.

Landis said that the easiest approach is just building on top of the existing wall and the estimated cost of that would be about $3.5 million. The second option, which would add support to the existing wall would run about $7.5 million, while full reconstruction would cost about $13 million.

"These would be federal projects," Landis said, "so we wouldn't have to foot the entire bill." He told the Harbor Commission that no decisions needed to be made at the present time, but ACE wanted to let the City know what the options are so that the City could ultimately decide what approach they wanted to take to deal with the wave problem.

After the meeting, Landis said that the scope of the project is not set in stone. "But ACE wanted to engage the city early while they review funding options," he said.

Public invited to annual Ramageddon Reveal

By James Windell

Ramageddon, the award-winning robotics team, will hold their robot reveal on Wednesday, March 11, 2026 at South Haven High School.

And what will be revealed?

That question was posed to Coach Kim Wise.

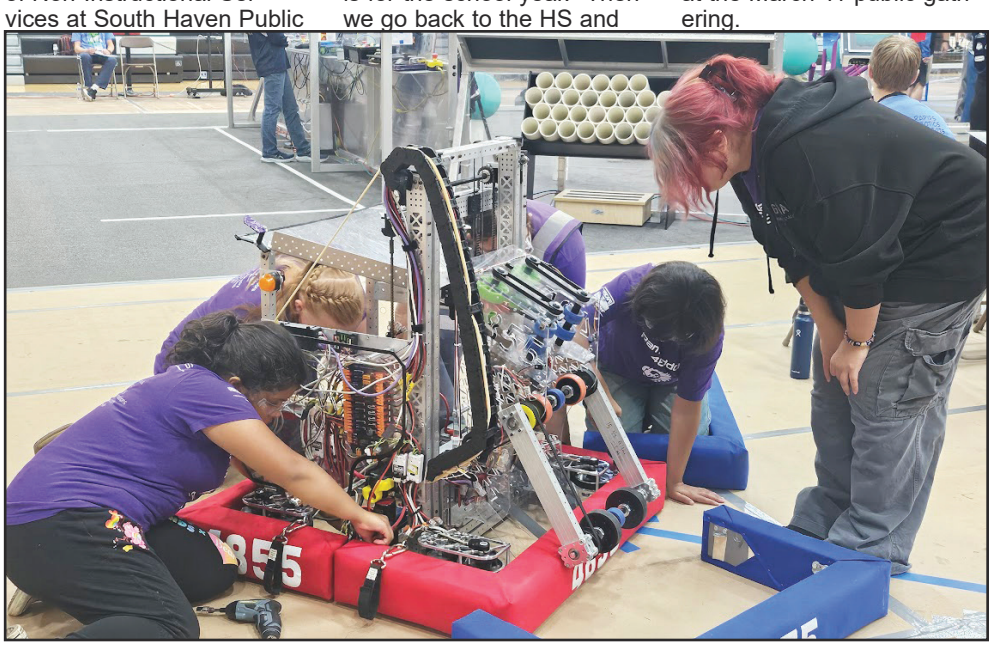
"The Annual Ramageddon Robot Reveal is a way of showing off what the kids have worked on all season," Wise, who is also the HR Director for the City of South Haven, said. "The kids on the robotics team will tell about what they worked on this season and then we get to show the community the robot we built."

The Ramageddon Robotics team at South Haven High School was founded in 2013 and since then has competed in the FIRST Robotics Competition (FRC) and earned honors such as the Chairman's Award (2020), Impact Award (2025), and multiple state and world championship qualifications. The team qualified for and competed in the FIRST Championship, also known as "Worlds" in 2018.

Wise, who has been part of the team since the beginning, says that she fell in love with the program when her son Tony was on the Robotics team in 2013. "For the first three years, I was a parent volunteer," Wise says. "Then I co-coached with Kevin Dee, another team parent and the Director of Non-Instructional Services at South Haven Public Schools, so that we could establish some stability for the team. Then in 2021, one of our mentors, Zach Van Huis, stepped up and he is now the Build team coach and I'm the Business team coach."

Wise says that the Ramageddon Robotics Team is part of a worldwide competition and each January all teams learn what the task is for the school year. "Then we go back to the HS and do brainstorming and then we start doing some prototyping," says Wise.

Students on the team meet every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 5:30 pm to 9:00 pm and they also meet on Saturdays from 10:00 am to 4:00 pm. Between January and March, they design and test their robot – and this year's robot will be revealed at the March 11 public gathering.



After the public reveal, the team will participate in the Berrien Springs District competition on March 21 and 22, 2026; then there is a competition later in March in Battle Creek. "If we do well enough in the district competitions, we can qualify for the Michigan State Championship which is in April at Saginaw Valley State University," says Wise.

She points out that the team has been to state competitions three times in the past.

Wise says that she is sold on this program because of what students learn by participating. "We're big on teaching fearless thinking," Wise emphasizes, "so we're teaching these kids that it is okay to fail. We call it fumbling forward. Kids who come on the team often find it difficult to accept failure, so we teach them that failure is okay and that they can go forward from that."

She also notes that students learn critical thinking skills as they design and build a robot to perform certain tasks. "We want them to think 'How is this going to work? Will it work? And if it doesn't work, how can we make it better?"

But there is much more to what young people can get out of being on the robotics team. "We want them to learn to speak in public, be able to talk to potential sponsors, and learn how to budget," Wise says. "They know we only have so much money to spend on robots and competitions, so how are we going to do that wisely?"

In addition, she says that kids learn about teamwork. "They have to work together," she says. "Our programmers have to work with our build team and with the business team. They all have to work together to have one final project."

That final product for this season will be demonstrated on March 11 at 6:00 pm at the Integrated Learning Center at South Haven High School. There is no admission fee and everyone is welcome. For more information, visit the Ramageddon website at www.ramageddon.com

Decatur's beloved Hard Times Restaurant reopens

A ribbon-cutting ceremony was held last week for the newly reopened Hard Times Family Restaurant in Decatur. Photo from the Village of Decatur, MI's Facebook page.

Jordan Wilcox Assistant Publisher

For more than 40 years, Hard Times Family Restaurant has served as a local gathering place where friends meet, families connect, and traditions are built. After being closed for several months, the beloved Decatur establishment was purchased by Lori and David Walker.

Lori Walker is a lifelong Decatur resident who worked at Hard Times for more than 40 years alongside the restaurant's original founder and her close friend, Deb Tuka. Her longstanding connection to the restaurant makes the reopening especially meaningful for the Walker family.

The Walkers purchased the restaurant late last year and celebrated the eatery's grand reopening on February 7th. Last week, the Village of Decatur and the Southwest Michigan Regional Chamber welcomed them back to the business community with a ribbon-cutting ceremony.

"We're thrilled to bring Hard Times Family Restaurant back to life," the Walkers wrote on Facebook. "Our goal is to once again provide our patrons with the same warm, welcoming atmosphere and great home-cooked meals that generations of families in Decatur have come to love."

"Their support and cooperation made this transition smooth and meaningful," the Walkers continued, referring to Dan and Janice Benson, who assisted throughout the purchase process. "We're grateful for their trust and for the opportunity to carry on the Hard Times legacy."

"In addition, we cannot thank the community of Decatur enough for the incredible support and encouragement we have received so far. The outpouring of kindness and excitement from friends, neighbors, and loyal patrons has truly inspired us."

Hard Times Family Restaurant is located at 108 N Phelps Street in Downtown Decatur. They're open from 6:30 a.m. to 2:00 pm, Wednesday through Sunday.

County commissioners approve mental health board reappointments

By Paul Garrod
Staff Writer
news4garrrod@gmail.com

PAW PAW - Van Buren County commissioners on Feb. 24, approved the re-appointments of Carol Sjoquist and Michael Saenz to the Van Buren County Community Mental Health Board for a three-year term, April 1, 2026, to March 31, 2029.

Commissioners approved the re-appointment of Sandy Hanson to the Van Buren District Library Board for a four-year term, Jan. 1, 2026, through Dec. 31, 2029.

Commissioners said Hanson is the only District Library Board trustee appointed by Van Buren County government, with the other seven District Library Board trustees being appointed by local municipalities contained within the Library District's service area, which covers exactly two thirds of Van Buren County.

Hartford City and Township, The Village of Lawton, the Paw Paw School District, and South Haven City and Township are not contained within Van Buren District Library's service area, thus those communities have their own public libraries independent of the Van Buren District Library system.

Commissioners further stated, "Ms. Hanson is an asset to the VBDL. In addition to being an avid user of the Library District's Webster Memorial Branch, she is also a member of the Hamilton Township Board of Trustees, bringing the benefit of her public service experience to the Library Board. She is thoroughly engaged in setting the direction of the District Library, and assuring it is operated in an ethical and fiscally responsible manner. VBDL would like to continue to avail itself of Ms. Hanson's considerable knowledge, wisdom, and concern for the community."

Commissioners approved out of state travel for approximately 8 to 9 Specialty Courts team members to attend the All Rise Conference in Nashville, Tenn., from July 19-24, 2026. The conference itself will be held July 20 to 23, with travel occurring the day prior to the conference and return travel following its conclusion.

The All Rise Conference is a national training event that brings together judges, court staff, treatment providers, prosecutors, defense attorneys, and justice system partners from across the country. The conference offers evidence-based education, skill building workshops, and opportunities to learn about best practices, emerging research, and innovative approaches in treatment courts and problem-solving courts. It also provides valuable networking opportunities with professionals engaged in similar work.

Commissioners said the financial impact to the county would be the initial outlay, which will be fully reimbursed through the grant awards. The funds have been allocated within the county's federal grant awards for travel, including one that requires the attendance of the Specialty Court administrator.

Paw Paw Post seeking help identifying fraud victims

PAW PAW - Troopers from the Michigan State Police (MSP) Paw Paw Post are attempting to identify individuals throughout Southwest Michigan who have had contact with or entered into agreements with anyone claiming to represent Blue Frog Restorations.

Representatives of this company allegedly approach victims of storm damage and offer repair services on the condition that the homeowner signs over their insurance check.

If you or someone you know has been contacted by this company, you are urged to immediately discontinue all communication, cancel any agreements or payments, and contact D/Sgt. Ben Mahaffie at (269) 845-6948.

Patti Montgomery Reinert and Scott Reinert sit down for a conversation

By James Windell

Pinning Patti Montgomery Reinert and Scott Reinert to a time for an interview wasn't easy. Not because they were avoiding talking about their careers as difference-makers in South Haven. Rather, because they didn't want to dominate the headlines and detract from the focus on their successors.

Nevertheless, on a recent Monday morning, we met over coffee at the Flying Saucer in downtown South Haven

And as self-effacing as they've been in the past, so they were during this casual and free-wheeling conversation.

"We had our window of opportunity to be able to make our mark on this community," Patti Montgomery Reinert said, "and it was really fun because we did it together, but it's time for someone else to take over."

Patti was referring to Bailey Sisoy-Moore, who took over in October, 2025 as Executive Director of the Michigan Maritime Museum. Reinert had served as Executive Director for more than 16 years.

Scott Reinert, too, had passed the reins on to a successor. Chris Van Hekken recently became administrator for the South Haven Area Recreation Authority, a position Scott had held for several years. Prior to that Scott had been director of the South Haven Area Convention and Visitors Bureau before Jennifer Sistrunk began leading that organization.

After living in and serving the South Haven community, the couple recently moved to Holland to be closer to their children and grandchildren.

"Holland and South Haven are not that far apart," says Patti, "but it's different when you are in the same town as your grandchildren. They just pop over, raid the refrigerator, but we can also have conversations. We used to have planned visits with them and now it's just more spontaneous. It's really nice."

Not that they have abandoned South Haven.

"We return to South Haven often as it will always have a special place in our hearts," says Patti, "but, honestly, it was good for me, because it wasn't as easy as I thought it would be to leave the Michigan Maritime Museum. Living away from South Haven gives us a chance to step back a little bit and give Bailey the room she needs."

Still, letting go of the organizations they have been passionately working to promote hasn't been easy for either of them.

"We made a conscious decision to take 6 or 12 months to see what the Lord has planned for us next," explains Scott. "I think we will always be involved in the community, no matter where we are, and try to give back and contribute."

Looking back on their accomplishments, they are proud of what they did in their roles. But working constantly to make things happen was exhausting, too.

"I think for me it was a big responsibility, especially over the last five or six years because besides running the Museum I was also playing a really big role in the whole fundraising campaign," Patti says. "It was almost like two jobs. As proud as I am as to how everything turned out, it was a lot of responsibility."

During Patti's years as Executive Director of the Michigan Maritime Museum, she helped bring about considerable improvements. "When I started, the doors were almost closed and there hadn't been an Executive Director in place," she recalls.

"To have been a part of what the Museum is now is really exciting," she admits. "I still get goosebumps when I drive past the Museum because I remember what it was like before; the difficulties we had in the beginning with the lack of money and low membership. Now to see what it is now and what it can be in the future. It gives me such a sense of pride and gratefulness to have had the opportunity to be a part of that."

Patti says that Scott was such a big support as they worked towards a $10 million fundraising goal and then moving into the building they have now.

Scott has his own accomplishments to look back at. "I was director of the Convention and Visitor's Bureau for six years and then I focused on the Museum helping Patti for a year or so," Scott says. "Jennifer [Sistrunk] took my place and she was great because we had worked together for several years. But she said there were a number of projects coming up and Jen asked me if I knew anyone who could help them run those projects and I said I'll do it."

Those projects came to an end in late 2025 and he thought that given Patti's situation it would be the right time for both of them. "But the other thing that happened that gave me comfort was that we hired Chris Van Hekken at Recreation Director," Scott says. "Chris had a lot of experience so I felt very comfortable with getting him and that meant I could back off."

He admits that he and Patti both have a lot invested emotionally in their work. "So, we're both supporting the Museum and recreation as best we can," he says.

Scott sees his two biggest accomplishments as helping to bring about the purchase of the Riverwoods property on Black River and being part of the team to obtain voter approval of the Recreational millage which led to the funding and hiring an "amazing" Recreational Director for the community. "I feel proud of both, but the Riverwoods project in particular because that was something I spent a lot of time with," he says. "I can't wait to see that open. This will be an amazing asset for the community."

As our conversation came to a close, they were asked to pose for a photo. They said they didn't expect that. And then Scott summed up what both felt about an article about them.

"We're not that kind of people who want to be in the newspaper," he said. "We want to be behind the scenes and never toot our own horns."

Then he said there was a quote he liked to use.

"God can do tremendous things through those who don't care who gets the credit," he said. "That's the way I always felt. I don't care about the credit. I just want to get things done."

Case conference held in Carlotto lawsuit against South Haven

By James Windell

A case conference was held on February 25, 2026, between Magistrate Phillip J. Green and the attorneys for Pat Carlotto and the City of South Haven.

Carlotto, a 25-year veteran of the South Haven Police Department, filed a lawsuit against the City of South Haven in November, 2025, after the City failed to appoint him as Chief of Police.

Carlotto was appointed interim police chief after Chief Natalie Thompson retired in September 2024. He held the role until Kevin Swope was hired in January 2025. After Chief Swope resigned just one month into his tenure, Carlotto was again named interim chief. He stepped in to lead the department while the City resumed its search for a permanent replacement.

He served in that role until Dennis Honholt began serving as Chief on April 1, 2025. Honholt resigned a month later, but no interim police chief was named immediately. Sgt. Adam DeBoer was appointed interim chief near the end of April 2025 and was in that position until recently being promoted to Chief.

In his suit, Carlotto states that he has qualifications, credentials, and experience that far exceeded those of the persons the City ended up hiring as its chief of police and that the reason he was not selected as Chief of the South Haven Police Department was because of retaliation and discriminatory treatment.

The Rule 16 scheduling conference, held on February 25, is typically where the judge sets the litigation timeline – deadlines for discovery, motions, disclosures, and other case-management issues. An order issued by Green indicates that the case is now scheduled for trial in the Federal Building in Grand Rapids on March 29, 2027.

In the case conference, it was decided that a list of witnesses that may be expected to testify in the case from both sides should be presented to the Court by the end of June of this year. Also, all discovery by both sides will be shared by August 31, 2026. Discovery is the pre-trial phase in a civil lawsuit where both sides exchange information and evidence so that each party understands the facts, strengths, and weaknesses of the case. It's designed to prevent surprises at trial and to encourage fair resolutions.

The Beacon reached out to Mark S. Wilkinson of Paladin Employment Law, PLLC in Kalamazoo, who is representing Sgt. Pat Carlotto, and to the attorney representing the City, Andrew J. Brege, with the law firm of Rosati Schultz Joppich & Amtsbuechler PC, in Farmington Hills, for comments. Both attorneys were asked if there might be a chance of a settlement before the case goes to trial in 2027. Neither attorney responded before the Beacon went to press.

Lawton Village Council approves FY 2025-26 extension budget

By Paul Garrod
Staff Writer
news4garrod@gmail.com

LAWTON – The Lawton Village council at its Feb. 24 meeting, approved the Fiscal Year 2025-26 Extension Budget, following an earlier public hearing.

Lawton Village Manager Todd Hackenberg gave a summary of the FY 25/26 Budget Extension. Lawton Village Council President Josh Appleby asked for any public comment during the budget hearing. With no further public comment following the public hearing, in a roll call vote, the village council approved the FY 25/26 Extension Village Budget.

Village Council President Appleby brought discussion on the police training property for annexation possibility to the floor for discussion.

The Lawton Village Council approved a motion that the Village of Lawton authorize Village Manager Hackenberg to proceed with the annexation process of village-owned property into the village limits, including but not limited to: obtaining a boundary survey and preparation of a legal description of the subject property. It was approved in a roll call vote.

In another area, the village council approved in a roll call vote, an ordinance that would revise the current village budget timeline from March 1- February 28, each year to July 1 - June 30, to be in line with Van Buren County.

The village council approved a resolution in a roll call vote to extend the current fiscal year.

Village council members approved a resolution which would vacate a public right of way located in Love's Second Addition and approved a motion to discuss the execution of the collective bargaining agreement.

The council was informed that HS Fleet has plans to move from its current location to M-40. A site plan has been approved, with construction scheduled to begin this summer.

Historic Allegan Church closed

By Gari Voss

The decision is final. The First Presbyterian Church on Cutler Street in Allegan as been closed by the Presbytery of Lake Michigan in Portage. The final service was Sunday, March 1, 2026, and members of the congregations were instructed to remove any personal items because they would no longer have access to the church or the rectory next door.

The church has been a cornerstone of the community since it was founded by settlers in 1834. Its steeple was a welcome sight to pioneers as it was like a beacon saying that Allegan was coming closer.

In resent years, the members have found numerous ways to meet needs of the Allegan community. During COVID, they found ways to feed the hungry. To assist in encouraging people to gather after COVID, Friends on Wednesdays began. A wide range of programs were offered beginning on Wednesdays but expanding to other days as they took mini-trips to other areas of Allegan County. There was usually an educational component to the gatherings, and sometimes there was a movie with popcorn.

When the weather began getting more inclement, the members teamed with Good Shepherd Episcopal Church to open the fellowship hall from 5-9pm on days that were below freezing. Anyone needing to get out of the cold could come in for a warm meal and beverages. During this ministry, they were able to assist an unhoused person get a job and rent a room in the rectory that was currently unoccupied. The Warming Center team reached out to Community Action of Allegan County who agreed to provide space if First Presbyterian and Good Shepherd would continue providing volunteers and meals.

Even though the church had new members, the Presbytery (body of elders) in Portage refused to allow the church to form a Session, a local governing board. Without a local governing board, First Presbyterian lost its ability to make local decisions.

On numerous occasions, the Presbytery of Lake Michigan stated that they would assist First Presbyterian. That did not happen even though the Presbytery states, "The Presbytery of Lake Michigan is a regional governing body of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) that supports and connects congregations across southwest Michigan. We provide leadership development, mission resources, pastoral care, and collaborative ministries to help churches thrive and serve their communities."

No matter how many ways the members asked the Presbytery board why they were making this decision, no explanation came.

When the announcement was made on social media, the response was of disbelief, sadness, and even anger.

A common response came from Kora Lynn Sweet, "Witnessing this happening has been so heartbreaking. The congregation is devastated, and the community is losing a major contributor. This church has done amazing things and the folks there are wonderful. I am sad that I missed their last service this morning."

"Wow, I'm not religious at all, but for this to happen on such short notice is devastating - I feel for those parishioners," shared Jessica Matthes.

Within the church's membership and those working to keep the doors open, the response was heartbreaking.

"I and others were fired at First Presbyterian this past week," lamented David Fooks. "Our outreach programs, our House of The Rising Sun Cafe which helped to double the size of our congregation, were rejected by the ruling Presbytery in Portage. They promised to help us and then 'helpfully' closed our church. This is organized religion at its worst. Many people are hurting, and the sadness is crippling."

Leah Ward was another of those "fired" because of the closing of the church. She can attest to the numb feelings and the need to decompress after the last few months of trying to work with the Presbytery to maintain the church and bring in another parttime minister. But in the end, Ward stated, "There was no nurturing… no help… no session/board. There was only betrayal and lies."

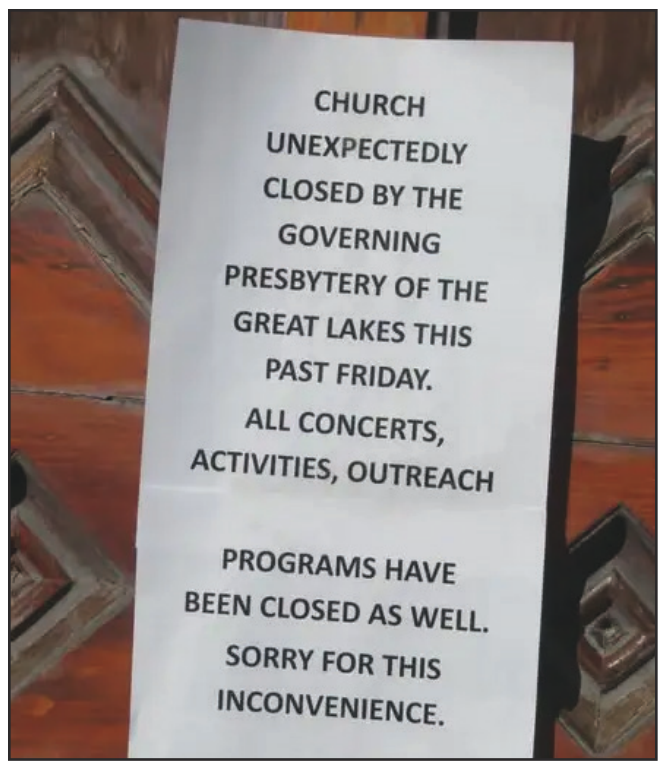
As church members took time to gather their things on Sunday, the mood was solemn. Lifelong members put on a brave face as they acknowledged that this was their family, and they were at a loss. Tears flowed while they attempted to add a silver lining with plans to gather in the near future on a regular basis.

The unhoused person who has been paying rent for a room in the rectory will again be looking for a place to stay. Finding an apartment in Allegan has been extremely difficult for the unhoused who have limited income. By working a couple jobs in town, there is hope that he will be able to afford a place without going back into tent life.

The condolences continue to roll in. Summing it up was Shannon McVoy, "Very sad. The congregation was small, but they were doing some amazing things for and with the community."

"Praying for the congregation," wrote Lori Viening. "So sorry."

The Presbytery of Lake Michigan has been contacted, but there has been not response at this time.



The notice was posted at the First Presbyterian Church on Cutler Street in Allegan. After months of conversations with the Presbytery of Lake Michigan in Portage, and comments from their board members that assistance would be given, the regional governing body told the Allegan congregation that they were closing the church. Sunday, March 1, 2026, was an extremely solemn day as parishioners cleared out personal items and tried to understand why this was happening.

HOPE history professor Dr. Fred Johnson passes away

By James Windell

When the crowd of people left the Historical Association of South Haven on February 18, 2026, most were, as Jim Ollgaard, President of HASH noted, deep in thought after an inspiring speech by Dr. Fred Johnson. But no one who left his talk thought this would be his last public presentation.

The beloved Hope College History Professor collapsed after suffering a cardiac arrest while teaching in the De Pree Art Center on February 24. He never recovered and passed away just three days later.

Dr. Johnson was well known in South Haven with many remembering his presentation for the South Haven Speakers Series in 2018.

"My memories of Professor Johnson are best captured in a video of him presenting for the Speakers Series of South Haven eight years ago," says Mark Odland, who was President of the South Haven Speakers Series at the time. "This was one of our all-time best attended presentations that proved to stir the audience in a positive manner."

Odland adds that Dr. Johnson had a wonderful way of presenting a difficult topic in a kind and compassionate manner that created opportunities for dialogue. "He was one of a kind and will be missed beyond what words can express," Odland says.

Matthew A. Scogin, President of Hope College, says that Dr. Johnson died peacefully, surrounded by family and close friends who were praying and worshipping God at his bedside. "I was grateful to be there with them," he says.

Scogin described Dr. Johnson as a giant of a man "whose life shaped countless individuals, and his absence will be felt in ways that are hard to put into words."

Dr. Johnson joined the Hope College faculty in 2000 as a professor of history. Scogin says that he was a scholar, a thinker, and an award-winning public speaker, "But his greatest passion was teaching. He loved being in the classroom, and his impact on generations of Hope students runs deep," Scogin says.

Before entering higher education, Fred served in the Marine Corps and later worked at General Motors, Con Tel Page Telecommunications and Aircraft Braking Systems. His life was marked by service, leadership and a profound commitment to helping others flourish.

Dr. Johnson was a member of the Michigan chapter of the National Speakers' Association and a member of Toastmasters since 2004. He advanced to the semifinal round of the Toastmasters World Series of Public Speaking six times between 2007 and 2018.

As a professor, Dr. Johnson's primary field of study was 19th century U.S. history, specifically, the Civil War. His other areas of expertise are 20th century U.S. history, U.S. military history and African history.

He earned his BS degree from Bowie State College, obtained his MA from Kent State University, and his PHD from Kent State University. He also earned a Master of Divinity degree from Western Theological Seminary.

Among his many awards was the Hope Outstanding Professor Educator (H.O.P.E.) Award, which he received in 2005. In 2002 and 2013, he was voted Favorite Faculty/Staff Award by the Hope College student body.

His published books included Tupac Shakur: The Life and Times of an American Icon (2010), Other Men's Wives (2005), and A Man Finds His Way 2003). He was working on three book projects when he died.

President Scogin says that above all Dr.

Johnson's life reflected God's heart. "He strove to follow Jesus Christ in every aspect of his life, he advocated for those often overlooked, and he especially cherished his time teaching in the Muskegon Correctional Facility."

Funeral arrangements were not available at the time the Beacon went to press.

SH Schools hold second vision alignment workshop

By James Windell

South Haven residents and school personnel came together on Tuesday, February 24, 2026, at South Haven High School for the second meeting of the Vision Alignment Team.

School Superintendent Ana Aleman-Putman welcomed the participants and turned the meeting over to Michael Posthumus and Sara Melton, the facilitators for the Vision Alignment sessions. Posthumus and Melton are representatives from Fielding International.

Fielding International is a global architecture and education design firm that specializes in creating innovative, learner-centered school environments.

As explained in the first session on February 10, 2026, by Aleman-Putman, the purpose of the workshop sessions are to work on vision alignment for South Haven Public Schools. She explained at the first workshop that the outcome of the sessions will have an impact on the school's programming, resource allocation, and the broader strategic plan. "The district's strategic plan aims to connect decisions and ensure they are designed to support student learning and long-term success, rather than being isolated choices," the Superintendent said.

Also in the initial session, Posthumus and Melton outlined an "ecosystem" approach that starts with vision development, then moves to educational programming, and finally to aligning the learning environment.

To begin the second workshop session, the facilitators asked participants to call out favorite South Haven Schools programs. That resulted in participants calling out sports and athletics, the Robotics Team, the History Club, and the high school band. The facilitators then went on to describe a four-step engagement process: discover/visioning → guiding principles → strategic planning → launch/implementation. The visioning phase, they pointed out, includes three workshop sessions plus building visits and one-on-one conversations to learn what's working and what the district should organize around.

Posthumus and Melton presented a purpose statement that came out of the first session. The purpose of South Haven schools, that was developed based on discussion in the first workshop, was: "To create a sustaining, generative, cooperative, thriving world." Attendees questioned the clarity of the word "generative," noting potential disconnect if shared publicly; alternatives suggested included fostering/facilitating/supporting/creating. Facilitators explained "generative" as creating opportunity, momentum, productivity, and continual growth and evolution.

Discussion also surfaced that "thriving" is aspirational and not a checkbox, but the facilitators suggested that purpose can remain somewhat broad while later work will define success.

Melton tried to clarify the purpose statement by indicating that the exact sentence is not intended as board-adopted public language. Rather, she said, it's meant to create shared understanding to guide the rest of the work. She followed this up by indicating that the group would work on identifying skills that students would need to learn to prepare them for the future.

Although a "RAM mindset" was suggested, this prompted debate. Some participants thought that "RAM mindset" may feel insider-only and not self-explanatory to newcomers to the community. A compromise direction emerged with some suggesting that the concept could serve as an overarching culture/identity label. Others suggested that "RAM mindset" could be changed to "positive culture."

Small groups of participants brainstormed concrete practices and experiences that help students build skills in six areas. Examples of practices generated included volunteering, active listening, group projects, debate/public speaking, writing/reading emails, phone skills, mentoring/cross-age leadership, online safety/media literacy, research/history club work, data analysis/reading comprehension, nature walks, fine arts, science experiments, field trips, and career exploration.

Participants noted the need for adult modeling as well as student practice; culture may extend beyond schools into community organizations. Facilitators introduced a differentiator: moving from students being "dependent learners" (needing adults to prompt behaviors) to independent application of skills. Table discussion connected independence to self-awareness, confidence, authenticity, and knowing when/how to apply skills (and when not to).

Finally, the facilitators introduced a movement activity in which attendees added age-appropriate "independence" practices across a preschooler though high school senior continuum.

Posthumus and Melton ended the evening by indicating they will synthesize all of the groups' outputs into a consolidated picture of practices and developmental progression for skills.

The next workshop session will be on March 24, 2026, at 6:30 pm when participants will be able to review the emerging discovery report and guiding principles.

VIEWPOINT

Opinion: It's Time to Ban Cell Phones From Classrooms

MIKE'S MUSINGS

MIKE WILCOX ■ PUBLISHER ■

Walk into almost any classroom in America today and you'll see a familiar sight: heads tilted down, thumbs scrolling, students half-present as glowing screens command their attention. Teachers often joke that they're competing with a device designed by some of the world's smartest engineers—except it's not funny anymore. It's a crisis.

Many schools in our area have already addressed this, but many have not. If you are a school in the "have not" category I hope you, for the sake of the students, ban cell phones asap.

Banning cell phones from classrooms isn't about denying technology or being "anti-kids." It's about acknowledging a simple truth: smartphones, in their current form, are wrecking focus, undermining learning, and damaging the social fabric schools are meant to cultivate.

First, the academic costs are undeniable. Study after study has shown that even the mere presence of a cell phone—buzzing, glowing, or sitting silently on a desk—reduces attention and recall. Teens aren't just distracted by their phones; they're distracted thinking about their phones. No amount of teacher reminders, "phone caddies," or half-hearted "airplane mode" rules are strong enough to compete with apps engineered to keep users hooked.

Then there's the social and emotional fallout. Classrooms used to be places where students talked to each other, made eye contact, formed friendships, and learned to navigate conflict. Now, many walk into class and immediately retreat into their screens. Instead of conversation, they exchange TikToks. Instead of solving problems face-to-face, they text from across the room. And when conflicts do arise, they often spill over into the digital world, where rumors, screenshots, and online drama spread exponentially faster.

Teachers—already stretched thin—are expected to police this chaos, but the burden is impossible. They can't teach effectively while also monitoring Snapchat, Instagram, and a dozen other distractions pinging in 30 pockets. Classroom management collapses when technology is allowed to call the shots.

Some argue that students need phones for safety, especially in an era of lockdown drills and real threats. But let's be honest: during emergencies, trained adults need clear communication—not hundreds of teenagers live-streaming, texting parents, or spreading misinformation. Most school districts have landlines, radios, and emergency systems for a reason. Phones often complicate crises, not solve them.

Others say banning cell phones is unrealistic or outdated. Yet countries like France, the U.K., and others have already enacted national restrictions with strong results: improved academic performance, fewer behavioral issues, and better student well-being. It turns out that when kids don't have the option to disengage, they re-engage.

This doesn't mean technology should be stripped from education. Chromebooks, tablets, and controlled digital learning tools can enhance instruction when used intentionally. But smartphones—personal, addictive, and impossible to regulate—are a different category entirely. They're not tools of learning; they're portals to distraction.

A classroom should be a place for thinking, not scrolling. For discussion, not notifications. For learning, not multitasking. If we want students to succeed—academically, socially, and emotionally—then banning cell phones in classrooms isn't just reasonable. It's urgent.

Sometimes the simplest solutions are the most effective. Shut the phones off. Put them away. Give students the freedom to actually learn.

Driver with multiple outstanding warrants jailed

Van Buren County Sheriff's Office Uniform Response handled a motorist assist in Decatur Township. The driver was identified and had multiple outstanding warrants. The vehicle came back as stolen out of Cass County. Methamphetamine was found during the investigation as well as other items in question. The driver was lodged on several felonies.

Uniform Response handled a single motor vehicle crash in Columbia Township. Upon investigation, the driver was found to be intoxicated. He was lodged for the incident.

"I want to thank Michigan's Speaker of the House of Representatives Matt Hall for the special guest invite to attend the State of the State event. I was able to speak with numerous representatives about different topics and interests that would benefit not only our office, but also our community," said Van Buren County Sheriff Daniel Abbott.

"Congratulations to Bailey Kissel for completing and graduating from the Kalamazoo Valley Community College (KVCC) Corrections Academy this week. Part of the requirement through the state to work in the corrections division is to complete the mandatory 160-hour corrections academy within a year of being hired," said Sheriff Abbott.

"There is a scam going on that appears to be from Amazon. The message claims that an item you bought was of poor quality or has been recalled. It also states Amazon will provide you with a full refund and free replacement with a link for you to click on. The link will take you to a fake page that looks real and cybercriminals will steal your credentials at that point. Reminder not to select any links in an unexpected text message. If you believe there's an issue with your Amazon purchase, navigate through their official website. Lastly, as always if it's too good to be true, it probably is," said Sheriff Abbott.

"Uniform Response went through a six-hour training session for the use of the new Taser 7 Energy Weapons. The training consists of review of Axons training materials which include a PowerPoint presentation, various tabletop and line drills, and different scenario training meant to emulate real world situations where deputies may be tasked with deploying an energy weapon at a suspect. Deputies have all had taser training in the past, but with the new Taser 7, this training was required," said Sheriff Abbott.

Uniform Response handled a scam in Almena Township. The victim was at work, and a secretary received a phone call from an individual saying they were law enforcement. "The victim got on the phone and was advised he missed court and there was a warrant placed on him with a $3,700 bond. The victim left work, drew the money out, and fortunately felt something didn't seem right about it. He stopped at our office, and it was confirmed to be a scam. It's an open investigation and we are hoping to identify the suspect in this so they can be held accountable. I'd like to remind everyone that we would not call you on something like this, and if there's ever a question on anything like this, call law enforcement immediately to confirm it's valid. This victim was close to being scammed out of his money," said Sheriff Abbott.

Uniform Response handled a vehicle stuck on the railroad tracks in Bangor. Deputies once on scene found the driver was highly intoxicated. The vehicle was removed off the tracks, and the incident was investigated further. The driver was arrested for operating under the influence of alcohol and possession of cocaine.

Uniform Response handled a call in which a four-year-old child consumed edible chocolate covered mushrooms in Waverly Township. "The child got into the refrigerator where the parent had them and ate some. The child was taken to the ER for treatment," said Sheriff Abbott. The case is being reviewed by the Van Buren County Prosecutor's Office for charges and it was sent to CPS (Child Protective Services) as well.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Disservice done by printing Young's letter

To Whom It May Concern:

I question the purpose of allowing a 6 column diatribe filled with insults, personal opinion, and a general "senior crankiness" over…. Well, I'm not actually sure what John Young is railing about exactly.

But I will tell you this: And these are direct quotes as printed in your publication.

"Spoiled brats" hockey team

"Turncoats looking for 15 minutes of fame"

Olympians "owe a debt" to the nation? "Athletes exist simply for our entertainment? No more than dancing bears or rodeo clowns"

"Corrupt Gov. Whitmer"

'MARITAL NAME CHANGES SHOULD BE MANAGED BUT "PEOPLE OF COLOR AND WOMEN ARE TOO STUPID TO FIGURE IT OUT"

REALLY? YOU PRINTED THIS?

DO YOU NEED WRITERS TO FILL SPACE, OR IS IT EASIER TO GIVE 6 COLUMNS TO AN OBVIOUSLY MALICIOUS HATEMONGER?

So, IN THE SPIRIT OF THE IGNORANCE THAT MR. YOUNG PROUDLY DISPLAYS WHEN HE SAYS 'PEOPLE OF COLOR AND WOMEN ARE TOO STUPID TO FIGURE IT OUT" If I may, let me advise you of a few things women go through with "legal" names. When my husband decided he just couldn't be married, he divorced me. I had taken his name 3 years earlier as most women seem to do. But now that he's divorcing me, I MUST PETITION THE COURT FOR THE RIGHT TO RESUME THE USE OF MY BIRTH NAME. WE HAD NO CHILDREN; JUST HE AND I, yet I had to ask for my name back legally. I get it. But then…..

But I could not legally get my drivers license, voters registration, insurance, medical, IRS information, payroll, Human Resources, library card or any other "legal" documents I am required to have unless I drag along that divorce decree to every facility to prove I was back to using my birth name.

Worked great for 10 years.

Then I got married again. And now, 40 years later and using and considering my legal name to be my husband's last name, along comes the SAVE act. But no men have to jump through more hoops to have the "required ID" OF YOUR BIRTH CERTIFICATE.

Well, Mr. Wilcox, VICE PRESIDENT VANCE'S BIRTH NAME IS JOHN DONALD BOWMAN.

Well, Mr. Wilcox, VICE PRESIDENT VANCE LEGALLY CHANGED HIS OWN NAME TO JD VANCE IN 2013. RIGHT AFTER PETER THIEL CHOSE HIM TO SPONSOR INTO THE WHITE HOUSE.

So, no, life is not fair. If anything, it's pretty plainly set Up for the convenience and ease of men. And, as Mr. Young asserts, 'People of color" (I think he'd like to use another word) and "Women" are 'TOO STUPID TO FIGURE OUT MARITAL NAME CHANGES."

I wasn't too stupid, Mr. Young. I just never had the men's rules apply to me.

Hope this helps explain just why I think you do a disservice to your business, to simply publicize an article that is so obviously racist and misogynistic. And then you claim we should all sit down and talk.

Why not make your next column about how to talk to anyone who starts by calling you names? Better yet, why not own the distinction of being the first political party to put the "F WORD" on a flag? Because now that formerly frowned-upon word is just an everyday adjective without the power to shock anymore.

Here. Let me help you.

Sincerely,
A libtard.
A retard.
A woman.
Mary Redmon

The rest of the story

Dear Editor:

On February 12, 2026, I read Publisher Wilcoxs ("Wilcox") article titled "Why the U.S. Needs Voter I.D." On or about February 4, 2026, President Trump ("Trump") stated that Republicans should nationalize elections. On February 11, 2026, the U.S. House of Representatives passed the SAVE America Act. Wilcox supports Trump and the Republican House of Representatives. He wrote "National elections should have national standards. So, why does the U.S. need Voter ID? To further safeguard and protect the election process. But, is there a bona fide problem with election fraud?

No. As Wilcox knows, "instances of in person fraud are statistically rare." He writes further that "... fraud is infrequent." I would use the words "nearly non-existent." So, we're trying to fix a nearly non-existent problem. Why? Wilcox admits that there is chance that voting may be suppressed. And, folks, that is the real goal of Trump and Republicans. a The SAVE America Act raises concerns among some groups, including married individuals who have changed their names and may not have matching documents.

Democrats say this legislation would disenfranchise eligible voters, while Republicans say it is necessary to prevent fraud. (But, here again, as Wilcox notes fraud is rare. It is a bogeyman.) Wilcox wrote that the notion that Voter ID laws suppress turnout "doesn't hold up against real world experience." However, Wisconsin's Voter ID law suppressed turnout among African American voters and other groups in 2016. Where turnout in elections increased, there is no evidence that it increased because of Voter ID laws Trump hired Simpatico Software Systems ("Simpatico") to attempt to prove voter fraud in the 2020 presidential election. Simpatico found no (repeat, no) evidence that any voter fraud changed the election.

Claims of voter fraud made by others were verified as false. Trump and his allies feed us a steady diet of innuendo, misrepresentations, false impressions, and outright lies when it comes to the issue of voter fraud. If voter fraud had impacted the 2020 presidential election, it would already have been proven. Trump is lying about election fraud. Trump lost the 2020 election. So, if FOX News continues to spread voter fraud lies, and many of its viewers actually believe the lies, the U.S. needs to add further steps and barriers to vote and more than likely have ICE agents around our polling stations? We have become Hungary.

In the Dominion Voting Systems ("Dominion") v FOX News 2023 lawsuit, FOX News was alleged to have knowingly spread false election fraud stories. The core of FOX News' defense was the notion that its viewers know that FOX News is not hard news reporting. While not explicitly using the word "entertainment", it was implied. FOX News paid Dominion $787.5 million in April 2023.

Here we are in February 2026. Trump is still lying about voter fraud. And, Wilcox wants "national standards" to prevent near non-existent voter fraud. Wilcox added that there is a "fairness" element. Though admittedly "statistically rare" and "infrequent", there is this belief of fraudulent voting and "gaming" the system. Inasmuch as this belief is Evidence Free, is it too much to expect journalists to point this out, rather than to inflame it?

If you wish to indulge in a "fairness" discussion, start with the Electoral College. A condidate can win an election in Michigan by one vote and receive all 15 electoral votes. Winner Takes All. Fair? In 2016, Trump lost the popular vote by almost 3 million votes and still became President. Fair?

And then there is the U.S. Senate. Wyoming has 588,753 people. New York has 20.2 million people. Each state has 2 Senators. Fáir?

Wilcox claims a desire to leave no eligible voter behind. Let's see. Who's most at risk of being denied at the polls? Service members, people of color, naturalized citizens, women and rural voters If Republicans truly cared about election integrity, election day would be a national holiday or held on Sundays. Republicans want nothing to do with this idea. The more people voting, the worse Republicans tend to get beaten. Since the 1970's, it has been pretty cut and dry, figure out who is likely to vote against them, and prevent them from voting.

Sen. Mitch McConnell opposed making election day a national holiday for these very reasons.

Sorry, arguments against the latest Voter ID requirements, when reviewed critically, are anything but weak. Arguments to eliminate the Electoral College and make election day a national holiday arere strong. These are worthy tasks for Congress.

W. DeHoek

So many words and nothing said

Dear Editor:

This is in response to John R. Young's exhaustive Letter to the Editor on Feb. 26.

Mr. Young you must remember the old adage, "One man's disparagement is another woman's praise."

While you expended more than 1,000 words from your keyboard and said very little of substance that would convince me otherwise, I believe it's time you give it a rest and let the trees grow to maturity.

Isn't it great, Mr. Young, that we live in a country where you, I, and those honored Olympians can express ourselves 'FREELY!' My only hope is that those same young people will be allowed to grow to maturity with these same First Amendment Rights.

Let me remind you and anyone reading this rebuttal that Freedom of Speech in America is the fundamental, constitutional right to express opinions and ideas without government retaliation, censorship, or legal sanction, extending to spoken, written, and symbolic actions.

There less than 175 words, Mr. Young. It is possible to make a point without killing a tree!

Ann Burch

Reader agrees constitution for moral, religious people

Dear Editor:

According to John R.Young, in the February edition of the Courier -Leader, in 1798 while addressing the Massachusetts Militia, John Adams stated," Our Constitution was made only for moral and religious people. It is wholly inadequate to the government of any other".

Mr. Young, I could not agree with you more. Our Constitution then excludes persons found guilty by a jury of 34 felonies, persons who spread racist tropes, persons who profit from their high position by selling shoes-bitcoins-financial tokens-Bibles-fragrences-beer koozies-red caps-watches-real estate, a person accused of pedophila, persons who consistently lie, convicted rapists, and persons unfaithful to their marriage partner.

I am certainly glad our Constitution excludes people like this. Mr Young, I could not agree with you more. I am delighted we have no one in our government like that. May God bless America.

Yours in Patriotism,
Rick Wild

OBITUARY

Thomas William "Bill" Stembaugh

Thomas William "Bill" Stembaugh, 94, passed away peacefully on Feb. 20, 2026. He was born on Jan. 22, 1932, in Lawrence, Michigan, the only child of the late Thomas and Daisy (Taylor) Stembaugh.

After high school, Bill went on to serve his country in the United States Navy as a radio operator. After completing his bachelor's degree, life brought him back to Lawrence, where he ran the lumber company for his mother. He then secured his first insurance adjuster position and advanced to obtain his CPCU designation. He eventually became a founding partner at Michigan Claim Service, where he remained until his retirement. His work took him and his family to several communities throughout Michigan over the years.

Family was at the heart of Bill's life. On Feb. 22, 1952, he married Doris (Rowley) Stembaugh, who passed on Oct. 15, 2022. Together, they built a life centered on love, family, and faith.

Bill enjoyed a full and active life, which included much travel, with winters in Florida and summers on the lake. He enjoyed swimming, golf, walking, reading, and never passed up a good card game. He valued time with friends and remained actively engaged with others in his later years at the White Oaks community in Lawton, Michigan.

A man of strong faith, Bill was a dedicated supporter of the United Methodist Church and gave his time in service, including helping to form Eleanor's Pantry in Paw Paw. His steady presence and commitment to both family and community will be deeply missed.

He is survived by four children, Janeen (Patrick) Barr of Bangor, Nadine (David) Aldrich of Paw Paw, Richard Stembaugh of Bangor, and Doreen (Richard) Petersen of Grand Haven, Michigan; along with many grandchildren, great-grandchildren, extended family members, and dear friends.

A memorial service to honor and celebrate Bill's life was held on Saturday, Feb. 28, at the Paw Paw United Methodist Church, 420 West Michigan Ave., Paw Paw.

Memorial contributions may be given to United Christian Services, Paw Paw Annex Suite #1, 600 E. Michigan Ave., Paw Paw, MI 49079, or c/o the funeral home.

Friends and family may share a condolence message online at www.jolders-ma-klein.com.

Morris, economic development leader, joins Sturgis Bank

Sturgis Bank announced on Tuesday, March 3 that Zach Morris has joined the bank as assistant vice president, business development for Van Buren County. He has over 20 years' experience helping businesses in Michigan grow and thrive. Morris most recently served as executive director of Market One, which has principal responsibilities for economic and community development throughout Van Buren and Cass counties. Under his leadership the organization had an economic impact of $2.26 million and helped businesses create 1,300 jobs.

Stephanie Timmer, Senior Vice President, Community President for Van Buren County, said, "We are thrilled that Zach has joined the Sturgis Bank team. We've been serving clients in Van Buren County for over 25 years and continue to grow throughout the region. Zach will be instrumental in continuing our expansion."

"I'm excited for this opportunity," said Zach. "In my previous role, I worked closely with the team at Sturgis Bank and witnessed firsthand the expertise, integrity, and dedication they demonstrate in serving their clients each day. Joining the team feels like a natural progression, aligning my experience with a bank that is firmly committed to strengthening the communities it serves."

Morris holds a Bachelor of Arts in Business Professional Studies from Davenport University and is a graduate of the University of Oklahoma Economic Development Institute (OUEDI). He earned his Certified Economic Development Finance Professional (EDFP) credential through Grow America.

An active volunteer, Morris currently serves as treasurer of the Michigan Economic Development Association, chairman of the Community Board of Directors for Beacon Dowagiac Hospital and is a board member of the County Brownfield and Land Bank Authorities.

MATTAWAN — No. 4 seed Mattawan hosted No. 5 Portage Northern in opening round girls district play and came out on top 50-28. Mattawan jumped out to an early 17-2 lead after the first quarter behind seven points from Charlotte Douglass and 4 from Annemarie Pelak.

Mattawan continued a strong first half by outscoring PN 13-6 in the second quarter to lead 30-8 at the half. Caitlin Ryan had five first half points to support Charlotte Douglass who had 11 points in the half.

Maliyah Flowers had eight 3rd quarter points, but PN trailed 39-16 at the start of the fourth.

Charlotte Douglass of Mattawan ended with 19 points. Caitlin Ryan had 7 points

Maliyah Flowers of Portage ended with 15 points.

Mattawan moves on to play No. 1 Kalamazoo Central at 5:30 p.m. on Wednesday at Portage Central. The two teams split 2 regular season meetings, KC won at Mattawan 44-41 and Mattawan won at KC 50-40.

Mattawan celebrated four seniors (Savannah Waterlander - 2 points, Taylor Bernardi 1 point, Larkin Baima 4 points, and Chloe Nellenbach 6 points) with a 43-19 win last Thursday over Lakeshore.

Mattawan led 23-7 at the half behind 10 first half points from Charlotte Douglass and 8 2nd quarter points from Caitlin Ryan, both players ended the night with 14 points.

Lakeshore was paced by Samanthat Little with 10 points.

Mattawan struggled shooting the ball and fell on the road at Harper Creek by nine Tuesday night 44-35.

Caitlin Ryan led all scorers with 15 points and 6 steals. Savannah Waterlander had 8 points and 5 rebounds.

Lawrence boys are district champions

By John Raffel
Correspondent

LAWRENCE — Lawrence boys basketball came off a season where they saw a lot of growth and a season where they got better and better throughout the year coach Noah Wiswary said.

That showed it as they headed into district play, on Wednesday and were able to knock off Martin 65-50 that advanced them into the District Final game against Benton Harbor Countryside Academy. Defense was the key component for the Tigers as they were able to hold Countryside to 23 points through the first 3 quarters.

There were big games from Alex Gardner who had 12 points 12 rebounds and 10 blocks, Xavier Glover who had 19 points and 5 assists, and Gabe Doorlag who had 16 points and 9 rebounds.

"These kids have started to become a player led team, it is really fun to watch and I can't think of a group that deserves this more than them," Wiswary said.

Lawrence won 55-42 over Countryside in the title game.

Ice-Out Perch

We were on the southwest corner of Muskegon Lake in late March. The waves kept the boat rocking, and the anchor held us fairly tight. The wind was blowing hard from the northeast, and the perch were proving to be challenging.

With the constant battering of the wind, the boat would slide forward a few inches with each wave. This resulted in us pulling anchor and resetting every twenty minutes or so.

Until the anchor got stuck. It was wedged in the rocks in twenty-five feet of water. Se pulled and groaned, but it would not budge. We started the motor and tried to pull it free, but that failed. All we got was soaked for our efforts.

Finally, I said to my friend Denny, "I will start the motor; you cut the anchor rope." Of course, nothing goes to plan. The old two-cycle motor sputtered as soon as I put it into gear. That quickly, and we were on a straight course for the rocky rip-rap shoreline.

I jumped into the lake holding the side of the boat. Denny fired up the motor, and once my feet felt the rocks, I pushed us outward and told Denny to put it in gear. I said drag me out to deep water and help me back into the boat. That part worked, and we called it an evening and headed to the dock. His son asked, "Is this a regular part of our trips?"

Over decades of on-again, off-again perch-fishing excursions, things happen. Sometimes the results are a bucket full of perch, and other days not so much.

March kicks off ice-out perch fishing. At one point in history, perch were plentiful. Half a limit could be counted on each day out, with more days than not having a limit. But some things changed, and not always for the better.

Perch fishing is low-tech, simple, and a good way to catch fish early in the year. It's also a fish that requires patience. Lake Mac is a prime example. You can fish a spot and not get a bite in an hour, leave, try another spot with the same results, and go back to the first spot and catch a limit. The next day, maybe not a fish to be found.

I fished Grand Haven a few times with decent success, but it was not a daily occurrence. Spring Lake off the Grand River is a better bet. Silver Lake off the Kalamazoo offers steady action, but access will depend on water depth. Low water levels on Lake Michigan will make access tough.

Gun Lake is worth the time and effort. Once you figure out the pattern, it's a steady producer. Time on the water is paramount, and we like the shallower waters. Think of canals, channels, inlets, and areas with decayed vegetation and warm water.

Muskegon and White Lake are worth the drives. Both produce perch during the winter and at ice-out. Two areas produce the best. Areas close to the channel and the piers or areas near the mouth of connecting lakes, streams, culverts, and inlets. Giving the exact spots is like giving out your mushroom locations. However, if you see a pack of boats, go there!

'I still enjoy fishing the 60-80 foot clay humps out of South Haven. You need a calm day or a day with an east wind. And you need patience and a milk run of spots.

We were limited out on one Saturday morning, about the same time the fog rolled in. I was glad that my partner had a compass. After that incident, a compass stays in the boat.

Perch Pounder rigs and perch flies fished on a tandem rig land plenty of perch. We also like the glow-in-the-dark teardrops. Some guys swear that a plain gold hook with a minnow is the best. Carry all of the mentioned items along with spikes and wax worms.

There are days when the perch are extremely picky. Also, carry enough sinkers so that your rig doesn't roll all over. We use bright colored braid line so we can see the bite or any movement. Stop in and visit Bob's Gun and Tackle Shop.

Southwest Michigan School Spirit Tournament returns

If there's one thing Southwest Michigan has more of than anywhere else, it's school spirit. And for the third straight year, State Rep. Pauline Wendzel is giving local schools the chance to prove who has the most.

The 2026 Southwest Michigan School Spirit Tournament is back, and this year the stakes are bigger than ever. The winning school will take home a trophy, a tribute, and a $1,500 donation from Rep. Wendzel to the school's program or department of choice.

"Last year we had communities going to war over this thing. I mean that in the best way possible," Rep. Wendzel said. "This tournament brings out a level of pride that you just don't see anywhere else."

The tournament is a March Madness-style bracket that kicks off on Wednesday, March 18, and runs through mid-April, with the 2026 champion crowned on Friday, April 17.

VILLAGE OF PAW PAW
PUBLIC NOTICE
NOXIOUS WEEDS WITHIN THE VILLAGE OF PAW PAW

Please take notice: The Village of Paw Paw has determined that the uncontrolled growth of tall grass and noxious weeds are detrimental to the public health, safety and welfare of the residents of the Village, and constitute a public nuisance when found on any land in any subdivision of the Village in which buildings have been erected on 60 percent of the lots included in the subdivision; and on any lot along all improved streets, whether paved or unpaved, in common usage for a depth of ten rods (165 feet) or the depth of the lot, whichever is less.

Noxious Weeds include Canada thistle (Circium Arvense), dodders (any species of Cuscuta), mustards (charlock, black mustard and Indian mustard, species of Brassica or Sinapis), wild carrot (Daucus carota), bindweed (Convolvulus arvensis), perennial sowthistle (Sonchus arvensis), hoary alyssum (Berteros incana), ragweed (ambrosia elatior l.) and poison ivy (rhus toxicondendron), Poison Sumac (toxicodendron vernix) and other plants, grass, vines or other growth whenever in the opinion of the board of trustees it is regarded as a common nuisance.

The owner of land on which noxious weeds are found growing shall destroy the weeds before they reach a seed-bearing stage and prevent their regrowth or shall prevent them from becoming a detriment to public health. A person who violates any provision of this article is responsible for a municipal civil infraction, subject to payment of a civil fine of not less than $50 or more than $500, plus costs and other sanctions for each infraction. Each day on which any violation of this article continues is a separate offense and shall be subject to penalties or sanctions as a separate offense.

Tall grass and weeds not cut by June 1 of this year (2026) will be cut by the Village and the owner of the property charged with the cost under the provisions of the Village Code.
